

DREAM ASKEW

DESIGNED BY AVERY ALDER ART BY JEZ GORDON

PLAYTEST KIT
MARCH 2018

Dream Askew gives us ruined buildings, haunted faces, strange new psychic powers, fierce queer love, and turbulent skies, asking "What do you do next?"

Imagine that the collapse of civilization didn't happen everywhere at the same time. Instead, it's happening in waves. Every day, more people fall out of the society intact. We queers were always living in the margins of that society, finding solidarity, love, and meaning in the strangest of places. Apocalypse didn't come for us first, but it did come for us.

Gangs roam the apocalyptic wasteland, and scarcity is becoming the norm. The world is getting scarier, and just beyond our everyday perception, howling and hungry, there exists a psychic maelstrom.

We banded together to form a queer enclave - a place to live, sleep, and hopefully heal. More than ever before, each of us is responsible for the survival and fate of our community. What lies in the rubble? For this queer enclave, could it be utopia?

HOW TO PLAY

SET EVERYTHING UP

To start, read the overview. Next, randomly distribute the six character roles and six setting elements to everyone at the table. Take turns reading the italicized intro text for each character, then each setting element. Once they've all been read, each player selects one character role and one setting element to be theirs. Any unused character sheets are removed from the game, and any unused setting elements are placed in the middle of the table.

To create your character, go down the middle column of the sheet, circling things as instructed. Talk about your answers as you do so - naming your choices to the group, and adding some extra details about what you're imagining. Choose your question to ask to the left, but don't ask it just yet.

To flesh out the setting element, circle two things which it desires. Mention your choices aloud to the group. If there are any setting elements that remain blank in the middle of the table, the first person to pick them up during play will circle two their desires at that point.

Next, the whole group moves on to the Enclave Worksheet. As the group chooses visuals, discuss the emerging landscape. You can even begin sketching if you want to. Next, choose three forces that are in triangular conflict within your community. Define some details about how that conflict manifests, and what the factions involved are like. Is this a petty squabble between neighbours, or a town divided by rival ideologies?

Before play, read your Lure aloud to the group.

The process of setting everything up should take about one hour total.

BUILD UPON CURIOSITY

The prompts you circle on the Enclave worksheet lead into worldbuilding: enthusiastically making up details, asking one another questions, and sketching out a map of the area together. As this process unfolds, each player is also invited to ask to the person on their left the question they chose when creating their character. Players can ask in any order.

Build upon your curiosity. Maybe you want to know more about a key relationship, or discover exactly what was said during a recent interaction between two characters. Ask questions. Build on the answers that others give. If it seems like there's a scene worth exploring, dive in. Don't worry about everyone even getting to ask their question to the left, if you've already found a scene you want to explore. You can always come back.

LEAP INTO SCENES

With everyone building upon their curiosity, asking questions and excitedly fleshing out the dream, scene ideas will emerge. Maybe something will seem especially poignant or exciting. Maybe the answer to a question is clouded by uncertainty, or it just feels too big to make an arbitrary decision about. Leap into playing out that scene in full - narrating where the characters are when a question gets asked, speaking as your character, continuing to ask questions about the setting. Scenes can be brief snippets or rolling storylines.

PLAY YOUR CHARACTER

Read the tips for your character, and trust your storytelling instincts. Describe your character's appearance and mannerisms, narrate their actions, and speak their words. Play to find out who they are and what they do next.

Whenever you take action, that's you making a move. Moves are how the story unfolds. By default, a lot of the moves you make are "take action, leaving yourself vulnerable." But any time you're called upon to act, you can look at your list of moves and choose a different one to inspire your narration.

You start the game with zero tokens. When you make a Weak Move, gain a token. In order to make a Strong move, you need to spend a token.

You can also gain tokens by playing into someone else's Lure. Occasionally remind people of your Lure, and how they can earn a token from it. Lures encourage people to set one another's characters up to really shine.

Some moves are italicized questions. These are asked from one player to another, and the answer is always given honestly (even if their character remains cagey about it). It's knowledge that your character deduces, intuits, or manages to get out of someone else through conversation.

STEP IN TO PLAY MINOR CHARACTERS

Whenever a minor character comes up in the story, anyone can step in to play them. Just say, "I'll play Freckle during this scene!" If a minor character is obviously tied to a setting element, whoever holds that element can play them. You can always rotate ownership of minor characters!

INVOKE SETTING ELEMENTS WHEN IT FEELS RIGHT

Setting elements have a trigger for when to pick it up and take an active hand in playing it, and when to give it away in order to focus on playing your character. A setting element might not come up very much in a session, or it might be what drives the entire plot forward. Either is great.

Setting elements have moves, just like characters. When you act on behalf of the setting element, make a move. Setting elements don't gain or spend tokens.

YOU ALSO PLAY THE VARIED SCARCITIES

There's no postal service. No municipal waste treatment. No reservoir operations manager to treat your water. No ecological impact survey team. No police. No road maintenance crew, and that means no refrigerated trucks hauling groceries into the area. No signal in the cell towers most days. The people who used to think about this stuff so you didn't have to? They're gone now.

CIRCLE 2 DESIRES

competition, paranoia, collaboration, uncomfortable bargains, scrappy diy, suffering without, a feral age

TIPS

- Introduce scavengers, hustlers, growers, and bandits. Make them all somewhat sympathetic.
- Explore what happens when everyday infrastructure no longer exists.
- Ask compelling questions and build on the answers that others give.

PICK UP WHEN

Someone wanders the wasteland, seeks a buyer, or visits a marketplace.

GIVE AWAY WHEN

You need something material and don't immediately know where to get it.

MOVES

- Show someone acting foolishly out of need and desperation.
- Introduce a traitorous individual.
- Spread disease.

After every move, ask "What do you do?"

YOU ALSO PLAY THE PSYCHIC MAELSTROM

Close your eyes, open your brain: something is wrong with the world. That something is the psychic maelstrom. It's just beyond our everyday perception, ever-present and howling.

It can offer guidance, protection, even flashes of brilliant inspiration. But it's hungry, and nobody knows what price it demands in return.

CIRCLE 2 DESIRES

human dependence, cosmic revelation, revenge, entropy, fervent intimacy, to be ushered into the world forever

TIPS

- Explore the subtle impact that the psychic maelstrom has on everyday people and places.
- When people open their brains to the psychic maelstrom, describe or ask about their sensory experiences.
- Ask compelling questions and build on the answers that others give.

PICK UP WHEN

Someone uses a psychic gift, seeks out the strange, or invokes the maelstrom.

GIVE AWAY WHEN

You're involved in any of the above or leave yourself psychically vulnerable.

MOVES

- Foreshadow a threat.
- Enter into someone's sensory experience at the right moment.
- Bleed psychic instability into the immediate area.

After every move, ask "What do you do?"

YOU ALSO PLAY THE SOCIETY INTACT

For some reason we thought the collapse was going to hit everybody at the same time. But nothing happens like that: neatly, evenly. Civilization crumbles in waves, eroding the peripheries of good society.

Apocalypse is only a distant nightmare for the privileged, a cautionary tale about what might happen to them if they should fall from the master's clutches. You'd be surprised what one of those people would do to keep their society intact.

CIRCLE 2 DESIRES

orthodoxy, ignorance of outsiders, profit eternal, self-preservation, a technological solution, hope renewed

TIPS

- Describe environments and people that feel at once familiar and alien.
- Make decisions about what you can still buy in conventional markets.
- Ask compelling questions and build on the answers that others give.

PICK UP WHEN

Someone wanders into the society intact, or you have an idea for why they might pay the enclave a visit.

GIVE AWAY WHEN

You need to deal with the society intact or they remember that you exist.

MOVES

- Introduce an authority figure.
- Announce future threats.
- Offer an opportunity, with or without a cost.

After every move, ask "What do you do?"

YOU ALSO PLAY THE DIGITAL REALM

Everything we'd ever known or said was embedded somewhere inside it. Even though the digital realm was young, it was hard to remember back to the way life was without it. It seemed as permanent as it was pervasive.

Apocalypse pulled the digital realm to pieces. Networks fell into disconnect. Satellites blinked out. Computers were ripped apart and stripped of their precious metal content. But humans are wily and resourceful. They know how to salvage, re-purpose, and rebuild. Maybe the digital realm still has a future.

CIRCLE 2 DESIRES

expanded networks, shared knowledge, escapism, trafficked secrets, fresh code, to reinvent the world in its image

TIPS

- Describe sketchy, patchwork ways that people gain access to the digital realm after infrastructure collapses.
- Give some people a reason to hate, fear, or mythologize the digital realm.
- Ask compelling questions and build on the answers that others give.

PICK UP WHEN

Someone interacts with a digital device, or you have an idea about how digitization shaped this environment.

GIVE AWAY WHEN

You interact with a digital device or recall memories of the digital realm.

MOVES

- Reveal something to be broken.
- Let the technology speak in turn.
- Introduce a glitch.

After every move, ask "What do you do?"

YOU ALSO PLAY THE OUTLYING GANGS

People had wildly differing ideas about what the collapse of law and order meant for their future. Some shuffled the mortal coil at the first sign of real danger. Others took to the hills, equipped with water purifiers and dried goji berries.

But some people stayed right where they were, armed and alert. Ready to carve out an empire by whatever means necessary. Stop whatever you're doing. Crane your neck just a tiny bit. You can probably hear their roaring in the distance.

CIRCLE 2 DESIRES

territory, unspoken fealty, splendor, the smell of fear, home-cooked meals, mutant blood, somewhere safe to sleep

TIPS

- Describe the varied aesthetics and ethics of the outlying gangs.
- Use the outlying gangs to explore and magnify tensions within the queer enclave.
- Ask compelling questions and build on the answers that others give.

PICK UP WHEN

Someone wanders the wasteland, takes a major road, or trespasses.

GIVE AWAY WHEN

You do any of the above or you have a gang debt that you run out of time on.

MOVES

- Put a gun in someone's hand.
- Bring gossip in from the wasteland.
- Give someone the very resources that a gang is hunting for.

After every move, ask "What do you do?"

YOU ALSO PLAY THE EARTH ITSELF

We built a new world upon its back, glass and steel stacked toward the heavens. We learned how to pull electricity out of every natural element, to mechanize, to automate. Some of us went whole days forgetting that anything existed outside our edifice.

We wounded the earth. We alienated ourselves from its touch and its harmonies. We broke holes in the sky. When it tried to warn us, we didn't listen. What now? Will apocalypse cement that alienation for all eternity, or finally bring us home?

CIRCLE 2 DESIRES

healing, reciprocity, strange new forms, the fall of man, eden renewed, carrion, trembling awe, to be reborn in fire

TIPS

- Describe the smells, colours, and scurrying movements of the world.
- Show how the earth responds to human activity, adapting or withering.
- Ask compelling questions and build on the answers that others give.

PICK UP WHEN

You want to describe weather, mutation, beasts, or the natural world.

GIVE AWAY WHEN

You brave the elements, investigate something organic, or walk in nature.

MOVES

- Abruptly storm.
- Reveal an abundance or serenity.
- Leave something wounded.

After every move, ask "What do you do?"

HOW THINGS BREAK

Electricity requires upkeep. Without human intervention, a coal plant would likely go down in less than a day, and a hydroelectric dam in less than a fortnight. Failures anywhere in the grid can affect the overall grid, potentially pulling the whole thing down. Private, off-grid power systems require knowledge and upkeep too, and parts will degrade over time.

Gasoline goes stale quick. Depending on oxygen exposure, temperature stability, container material, and whether there is an added fuel stabilizer, that time can vary from one month to a few years. You can't siphon usable gas out of a car that's been abandoned on the side of the road since last year.

Paved roads will last a few decades before breaking down to the point of being treacherous or impassable for cars. The exact timeline depends on weather, use, and the earth itself.

The amount of time it takes for industrially-canned foods to degrade depends upon the integrity of the container. While best before dates expire within a few years, the food inside can remain edible across many decades, though colour, texture, and flavour will degrade. Once the can becomes compromised or dented, however, oxygen and bacteria quickly invade and make the contents unsafe.

Dried foods can last a lifetime if kept in a cool, dry environment safe from oxygen and life, though their nutrients will slowly degrade over decades.

When things break down, how does your community react to their varied scarcities? Do they go without, broker uncomfortable deals with profiteers from the society intact, make their own from scratch, scavenge, or something else entirely? How do they prove themselves to be resourceful?

GENDERS OF THE APOCALYPSE

Creating a character in Dream Askew involves contending with gender, but it's a gender exploded, extracted from the society intact and made mutant. What do some of these words even mean?

Some carry storied legacies from the real world, already infused with meaning - femme, androgyne, bigender, genderfluid, and others. A few are tied to racial community, positioning a character intersectionally, like two-spirit and stud.

Others are genders of the apocalypse. Ice femme and dagger daddy take existing queer identities and recast them in ways the real world has yet to experience. Gargoyle and raven emerge entirely new.

When you encounter a gender word, imagine. Ask your fellow players. Flirt with a search engine. If nothing comes up, invent. No matter how you come to your initial understanding, it's yours to continue to define through play.
